

LOVE IT OR HATE IT, KNIFE & FORK HAVE SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE DURING THE WORLD CUP

Knife & Fork Food Ltd will be helping their customers support the teams during the World Cup period with screenings of the games, and special South African Wines. And for those wishing to escape the World Cup, there will be something for those customers too. Knife & Fork own some of the best eateries across South Wales, including Woods Brasserie, The Conway, The Old Swan Inn and Farthings at Home Delicatessen.

For those football lovers who want to follow England's efforts, both the Conway and the Old Swan Inn will be showing the matches, with the Old Swan, in Llantwit Major, showing all of the matches on a screen in their back bar. The Conway, in Pontcanna, will be showing the early matches on the regular TV screens, but if England makes it through to the finals, the later matches will also be shown on a big screen in the pub.

Whilst the Old Swan and the Conway will be celebrating the World Cup, those looking to escape the festivities, can head to Woods Brasserie, in Cardiff Bay. Whilst serving all of their usual menus, Woods will be offering their customers a nod to the football with the addition of a fine selection of South African wines. The wines include a Swartland Chenin Blanc and Robertson Sauvignon Blanc in the white selection, and the popular Porter Mill Shiraz and Tulbagh Mountain's blended Cabernet, Shiraz and Mourvedre from the reds. All the wines range from £17 up to £32 a bottle, with a couple being offered by the glass. Woods will be serving their regular lunch and dinner menus, with the bonus of a Chef's Choice menu, 3 courses for £12.50 at lunchtimes and the Pre Theatre menu, 3 courses for £19.95, served until 6.30pm in the evenings.

Serge Luceau, Director for Knife & Fork, says, "We have a lot of customers, and many staff, who want to support the England Football team, hopefully right through to the Final, so we will make sure that those customers can get involved and support them in nice surroundings serving good food, wine and beers."

Sean Murphy, Director of Knife & Fork, goes onto say; "But we also realise that some people will just want to escape the World Cup, which is why Woods is going to continue to offer good food, with the bonus of fantastic wines to give those customers a retreat from all things football!"
